

The Judiciary State of Hawaii

2013 Annual Report

Hawaii State Judiciary Website

The mission of the Judiciary, as an independent branch of government, is to administer justice in an impartial, efficient and accessible manner in accordance with the law.

I am pleased to present our 2013 Annual Report. This report details the work of the Judiciary during the past year. As an independent branch of government, the Judiciary's role is to administer justice in an impartial manner, free from outside influences.

This report reflects the dedication of the men and women who work in the court system. Each day, these employees work toward fulfilling our mission, knowing that what they do may have far-reaching impacts upon people's lives. I am proud of our employees' work and extend to them my heartfelt thanks and appreciation. I also thank another valuable part of our Judiciary family—the many volunteers who unselfishly give their time and talent to serve the people of Hawaii.

In behalf of the Judiciary, I also extend our sincere appreciation to the Legislature for its continued support of our budgetary needs and legislative initiatives. We pledge our continued commitment to working with the Legislature and the Executive Branch to build a dynamic and progressive judicial system. Our mutual quest for excellence depends on our cooperative and collaborative efforts.

Month-by-Month Highlights

January

Judge Chang inducted into McKinley Hall of Honor

First Circuit Court Judge Gary Chang was inducted into McKinley High School's Hall of Honor at a ceremony on January 25 at McKinley High School. The program recognizes McKinley alumni who bring honor to the school through their achievements and contributions to the community and alma mater. Since the program's establishment in 1986, 169 individuals have been inducted into the Hall of Honor.

Judge Chang volunteers for numerous organizations. He is the current chair of the Judiciary's Permanent Committee on Land Court Matters, a board member of the McKinley Foundation, the Hawaii Legal Foundation, and was a volunteer with the Atherton YMCA, Special Olympics Hawaii, and the AYSO League. In 2005, he received the Hawaii State Bar Association's Ikena Award for his participation in the Bar's legal education programs.

February

Chief Justice Delivers State of Judiciary through Social Media and Releases Strategic Plan

On February 6, Chief Justice Mark Recktenwald delivered his biennial State of the Judiciary address on the Judiciary's YouTube channel.

"The tradition of Hawaii's chief justice, presenting a report to the legislature has been in place for at least 160 years," the Chief Justice said. "We are updating that tradition for the digital era and making the speech available to as broad an audience as possible."

The speech highlighted Judiciary initiatives, including the creation of self-help centers across the state to assist individuals in civil cases who cannot afford an attorney to represent them; the Courts in the Community program, which involves the Supreme Court holding oral arguments in high schools; and the creation of a Veterans Treatment Court to provide services and intensive supervision to veterans in the criminal justice system.

The Chief Justice also discussed the recently completed Judiciary strategic planning report, "Hawaii Judiciary 20/20: Our Vision." The plan focuses on access to justice; fair and timely case resolution; public understanding, trust, and confidence; a strong workforce committed to public service; and security and disaster preparedness. The plan's recommendations include making the court system more efficient and user-friendly through standardizing court forms, considering revisions to court calendaring procedures, and allowing parties to appear by telephone in certain cases.

Dean Ochiai and Kevin Souza Sworn In

Chief Justice Mark Recktenwald swore in Dean Ochiai and Kevin Souza on February 15. First Circuit Court Judge Dean Ochiai's appointment fills a vacancy left by Judge Richard Pollack, who became associate justice of the Hawaii Supreme Court. In 2011, Judge Ochiai was appointed by Chief Justice Recktenwald to the District Court of the First Circuit.

April

Hawaii Women Lawyers Honor Judge Hayashi

First Circuit District Court Judge Leslie Hayashi received the Outstanding Judicial Achievement Award from the Hawaii Women Lawyers (HWL). Judge Hayashi was recognized at the HWL's annual awards dinner held on April 5.

Judge Hayashi was recognized for her many achievements, particularly for her lifelong efforts on behalf of women's and equality issues. She helped prepare a survey of women attorneys about gender fairness, the results of which are now part of the standard training for judges, and prepared research to eliminate spousal tort immunity. Judge Hayashi was also part of a HWL Ad Hoc Committee on Gender Bias, which developed into the Hawai'i Supreme Court's Committee on Equality and Access to the Courts. She served as a member, and at times co-chair, of that Committee for nearly 20 years.

Drug Court Clients Help Themselves by Helping Others

In celebration of National Drug Court Month in May, on April 29, Hilo Drug Court clients, probation officers, the president of the Big Island Friends of the Drug Court, court administrators, and a Circuit judge joined members of the Hilo Rotary Club to spruce up and plant trees at the Boys & Girls Club of Hawaii Island.

Twenty current and former clients of the Kona Drug Court program took their turn the following weekend when they repaired and landscaped the walking path at Kona's Old Airport State Park. Drug Court participants were joined by Chief Judge Ronald Ibarra, District Family Judge Melvin Fujino, probation officers, police officers, members of the Friends of the Drug Court, and representatives from the Prosecutor's Office and Public Defender's Office.

Also in recognition of National Drug Court Month, Drug Court graduation ceremonies were held in Hilo and Kona, and on Oahu, Maui and Kauai.

May

State Judges Appear on YouTube for Law Day

In celebration of National Law Day on May 1, the Judiciary uploaded four audio interviews on the Hawaii State Judiciary's YouTube channel. Each interview is approximately five minutes, and features a state judge speaking on a different topic of interest. Each topic is centered on the Law Day theme, "Realizing the Dream: Equality for All." The theme celebrates the 50th anniversary of Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s "I Have a Dream" speech and the 150th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation.

Hawaii Supreme Court Justice Sabrina McKenna spoke about the significance of Title IX. Intermediate Court of Appeals Judge Daniel Foley discussed access to justice initiatives and how the initiatives address the unmet legal needs of Hawaii residents. First Circuit Senior Family Court Judge Mark Browning explained how juveniles are treated in the family court system. Fifth Circuit District Court Judge Trudy Senda spoke about the issue of fairness in traffic court.

August

Seminar on Working with LEP Clients Held in Kona

To increase access to justice in civil matters for court users with limited English proficiency (LEP), attorneys and judges from the West side of the island of Hawaii participated in a training program on "Working Effectively with Limited English Proficient Clients." This program was sponsored by the Hawaii Access to Justice Commission and was held on August 5 at the Big Island Drug Court in Kona.

Featured speakers were Supreme Court Associate Justice Sabrina McKenna, Third Circuit Chief Judge Ronald Ibarra, Office on Equality and Access to the Courts Program Director Debi Tulang-De Silva, and University of Hawaii Gender Equity Specialist Jennifer Rose.

The program included practical tips on how to identify and better communicate with limited English proficient clients and how to access court language services. Participating attorneys earned MCPE credits. The training was funded through an American Bar Association Access to Justice Expansion Project grant.

Senator Inouye's Attorney License on Exhibit at History Center

Senator Daniel Inouye's 1953 license to practice law in the Territory of Hawaii was displayed at the King Kamehameha V Judiciary History Center on August 9. The document was donated to the Judiciary by Mrs. Irene Hirano Inouye as a gift from the Daniel K. Inouye Legacy Fund.

The license, a photograph of the senator, and a description of his military and congressional accomplishments are exhibited together and located between the entrances to the Monarchy Gallery and the restored 1913 courtroom.

September

Volunteer Attorneys Assist Pro Se Litigants at Kona Courthouse

The Third Circuit Court expanded its volunteer attorney assistance program to court users in Kona, as well as Hilo. A ceremony, held on September 23 at the Kea -kealani courthouse officially launched this service. Under the program, at least one member of the West Hawaii Bar Association is available at the law library in the Kea -kealani courthouse each Wednesday, from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., to provide legal information to self-represented litigants.

The program is a joint effort of the Hawaii State Judiciary, Hawaii State and County Bar Associations, Legal Aid Society of Hawaii and the Access to Justice Commission. It has been available at Hale Kaulike, the courthouse in Hilo, since July 2012, and is also available at state courthouses on Oahu, Maui and Kauai.

Oahu Volunteers Recognized

The Hawaii State Judiciary formally thanked its "army" of 1,130 Oahu-island volunteers at its annual volunteer recognition ceremony held September 27 in the Hawaii Supreme Court courtroom.

During the past year, Oahu volunteers contributed 54,300 hours working in a variety of positions such as case aides, bailiffs, docents, clerical aides and law clerks. The majority of volunteers work with justices and judges (183), as court appointed special advocates for children (127), at the Juvenile Detention Facility (126) and for the Kids First program (120). The estimated value of work contributed by the volunteers equates to approximately $400,000, based on the minimum hourly wage.

Calming Presence Eases Veterans in Court

Appearing before a judge in a criminal case can be traumatic for anyone, but the process may be even more difficult for veterans, many of whom have Post Traumatic Stress Syndrome (PTSD). First Circuit's Veterans Treatment Court has a new "tool" to help veterans while they wait to appear before the judge. Her name is Athena.

Athena is an eight-year old certified service and therapy dog. Her owner, Ron Stebbins, adopted Athena from the Hawaiian Humane Society. Athena and Ron, a retired U.S. Army lieutenant colonel, are volunteers with the Hawaiian Humane Society's Pet Visitation Program and have been present in Veterans Court every Friday afternoon since starting on September 27.

Hawaii is the second Veterans Court in the nation to use a therapy dog in court.

James Ashford Sworn In

On September 30, James Ashford was sworn in by Chief Justice Mark Recktenwald as judge of the District Court of the First Circuit. Quoting the African proverb, "It takes a village to raise a child," Judge Ashford thanked his "village," which included his immediate and extended family and the people at the Cades Schutte law firm where he worked for 23 years.

Retired Justice Duffy Honored with NCSC Distinguished Service Award

Retired Hawaii Supreme Court Justice James E. Duffy, Jr., received the National Center for State Courts' (NCSC) Distinguished Service Award, one of the highest awards presented by the NCSC. Nebraska Supreme Court Chief Justice Michael Heavican, chair of the NCSC Board of Directors, presented the award to Justice Duffy on September 27 at the annual Hawai'i State Bar Association convention.

The Distinguished Service Award is presented annually to those who have made significant contributions to the justice system and who have supported the mission of the NCSC.

During Justice Duffy's tenure, the Hawaii Supreme Court's Commission on Professionalism successfully promoted legal education by advocating for the establishment of a mandatory continuing legal education requirement for state bar members. Justice Duffy also led the development of guidelines for Professional Courtesy and Civility for Hawaii Lawyers, and produced an educational video called "Tips from the Bench and Bar: The Do's and Don'ts in Hawaii Appellate Practice." He served as co-chair of the Judiciary's Strategic Planning Committee; President of the Hawaii State Bar Association; and as a member of the American College of Trial Lawyers, the American Board of Trial Advocates and the American Inns of Court. Justice Duffy received the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Hawaii State Bar Association and the Consumer Lawyers of Hawaii, as well as the John S. Edmunds Award.

October

New Site Selected for Kona Complex

The Judiciary selected a new site for the planned Kona Judiciary Complex. The new location is a 10-acre parcel in Keahuolu, North Kona, and is part of a larger parcel owned by the Queen Lili'uokalani Trust. The land is located mauka of Queen Ka'ahumanu Highway, and is across Makala Boulevard from the Makalapua Center.

The Judiciary had previously selected another site on land belonging to the State of Hawaii. During the due diligence process, an endangered 'uhi 'uhi plant was discovered in an adjacent part of the larger parcel. Because of the proximity of the endangered plant to the site, an alternate site was selected.

Judiciary officials anticipate that the construction timetable and budget for the project will not be significantly impacted by the change in location.

Children's Justice Center Celebrates 25 Years

On November 2, the Children's Justice Center of Oahu celebrated its 25th birthday at the Pacific Club. More than 300 guests attended, including representatives from the Honolulu Police Department, Prosecutor's Office, Sex Abuse Treatment Center and CJC staff and volunteers.

Before the CJC opened, children did not have a special place to go to be interviewed for abuse cases; they would either have to go to the police station or be questioned in their own homes. There are now five Children's Justice Centers across the state that provide a safe "home-like" setting that helps minimize trauma and ensure justice for young victims and their families.

The Centers have tracked over 30,000 cases, of those cases, 20,000 children have been interviewed in one of the Children's Justice Centers.

Second Circuit Installs Great Wall of Photos

On November 5, the Second Circuit dedicated a "Judges Wall" on which 20 portraits of former judges are displayed. The earliest is an 1854 photo of Magistrate

Ask-A-Lawyer Event for Veterans

This event was the first of its kind in Hawaii and was part of the Judiciary's Access to Justice for Veterans Program, which is overseen by First Circuit Court Judge Ed Kubo. The event gave veterans an opportunity to receive free legal advice from volunteer attorneys and law students. There were also other support services available from Volunteer Legal Services of Hawaii, Mediation Center of the Pacific, and the Vet Center.

Access to Justice Legal Fairs Held in Communities

Representatives from the state Judiciary, the Access to Justice Commission and legal service providers have been traveling around the community to provide information and answer questions about various legal resources and programs available to those who need legal services.

The oral argument was followed by two separate question-and-answer sessions for the students; one with the attorneys and another with the five justices. "Our hope is that we can help give our younger generation a window into the role and processes of the state Judiciary," said Chief Justice Recktenwald. "We wanted to give students an opportunity to go beyond the textbooks and experience a Supreme Court oral argument in person. We thank all the teachers for their time, commitment, and partnership in making this possible."

To prepare for the oral arguments, the participating juniors and seniors from each high school studied a curriculum developed by the Kamehameha V Judiciary History Center and the Students for Public Outreach and Civic Education of the University of Hawaii's William S. Richardson School of Law. The students' study was followed by a moot court activity facilitated by members of the Hawai'i County Bar Association. The Hawaii State Bar Association funded the students' lunches and transportation to and from UH Hilo.

Working Group Presents Recommendations to Strengthen Juvenile Justice System

At a press conference held December 13, a package of 20 policy recommendations to make Hawaii's juvenile justice system more effective was presented to Chief Justice Mark Recktenwald, Governor Neil Abercrombie, Senator Suzanne Chun Oakland, and Representative Mele Carroll. The press conference was held at the State Capitol. Access to Justice Workstations Installed at State Courthouses

For those who do not have legal representation, finding appropriate court forms and knowing how to fill them out can be a daunting task. To provide assistance, the Judiciary is partnering with the Hawaii State Bar Association and Legal Aid Society of Hawaii and installing new Access to Justice workstations. These computer workstations are equipped with interactive software program that will help self-represented civil litigants identify and complete the correct forms.

Supreme Court

The Supreme Court of Hawaii is the State's court of last resort. The Supreme Court hears appeals that are properly brought before the court upon applications for writs of certiorari to the Intermediate Court of Appeals and applications for transfer from the Intermediate Court of Appeals.

The Supreme Court also:

- hears reserved questions of law from the circuit courts, the land court, and the tax appeal court;
- hears certified questions of law from federal courts;
- hears applications for writs to judges and other public officers;
- hears complaints regarding elections;
- makes rules of practice and procedure for all state courts;
- licenses, regulates, and disciplines attorneys; and
- disciplines judges.

Each appeal is decided on the basis of the written record. In some cases, the court may hear oral arguments. The court takes no evidence, except in original proceedings. Each justice, or a substitute from the Intermediate Court of Appeals or the Circuit Court, participates in every substantive matter before the court. The Supreme Court is composed of a Chief Justice and four Associate Justices. Justices are nominated by the Governor from a list of not less than four and not more than six names submitted by the Judicial Selection Commission. A justice's nomination is subject to confirmation by the State Senate. Each justice is initially appointed for a ten-year term. To be considered for appointment, a person must be a resident and a citizen of the state and of the United States and licensed to practice law by the Supreme Court of Hawai'i for not less than ten years preceding their nomination. After initial appointment, the Judicial Selection Commission determines whether a justice will be retained in office. A justice may not serve past age 70.

Actions Filed

During fiscal year 2012-13, 245 primary cases were filed in the Supreme Court. There were 445 supplemental proceedings filed in the Supreme Court.

Terminations

Terminations of primary cases increased from 181 last fiscal year to 209 this fiscal year.

Status of Pending Cases

At the end of the fiscal year, 63 primary cases and 19 supplemental proceedings were pending.

Judges are nominated by the Governor from a list of not less than four and not more than six names submitted by the Judicial Selection Commission. A judge's nomination is subject to confirmation by the State Senate. Each judge is initially appointed for a ten-year term. After initial appointment, the Judicial Selection Commission determines whether a judge will be retained in office. A judge may not serve past age 70.

The Intermediate Court of Appeals has discretionary authority to entertain cases submitted without a prior suit when there is a question of law that could be the subject of a civil action or a proceeding in the Circuit Court or Tax Appeal Court, and the parties agree upon the facts upon which the controversy depends.

Cases in the Intermediate Court of Appeals may be transferred to the Hawaii Supreme Court upon application to the Supreme Court under circumstances set out in the Hawaii Revised Statutes. The ICA's Judgments on Appeal and dismissal orders are subject to the Hawaii Supreme Court's discretionary review by way of an application for a writ of certiorari. The current members of the Intermediate Court of Appeals are Chief Judge Craig H. Nakamura, and Associate Judges Daniel R. Foley, Alexa D. M. Fujise, Katherine G. Leonard, Lawrence M. Reifurth and Lisa M. Ginoza.

Trial Courts

Hawaii's trial level is comprised of Circuit Courts and District Courts. Family Courts are included in the Circuit Courts. Hawaii's trial courts function in four circuits that correspond approximately to the geographical areas served by the counties.

The First Circuit serves the City and County of Honolulu.

The Second Circuit serves the County of Maui, which includes the islands of - Maui, Molokai and Lanai.

The Third Circuit, divided into the districts of Hilo and Kona, serves the County of Hawaii.

The Fourth Circuit is no longer used as a circuit designation. The Third and Fourth Circuits merged in 1943.

The Fifth Circuit serves the County of Kauai, which includes the islands of Kauai and Niihau.

Circuit Courts

Strategic Mission

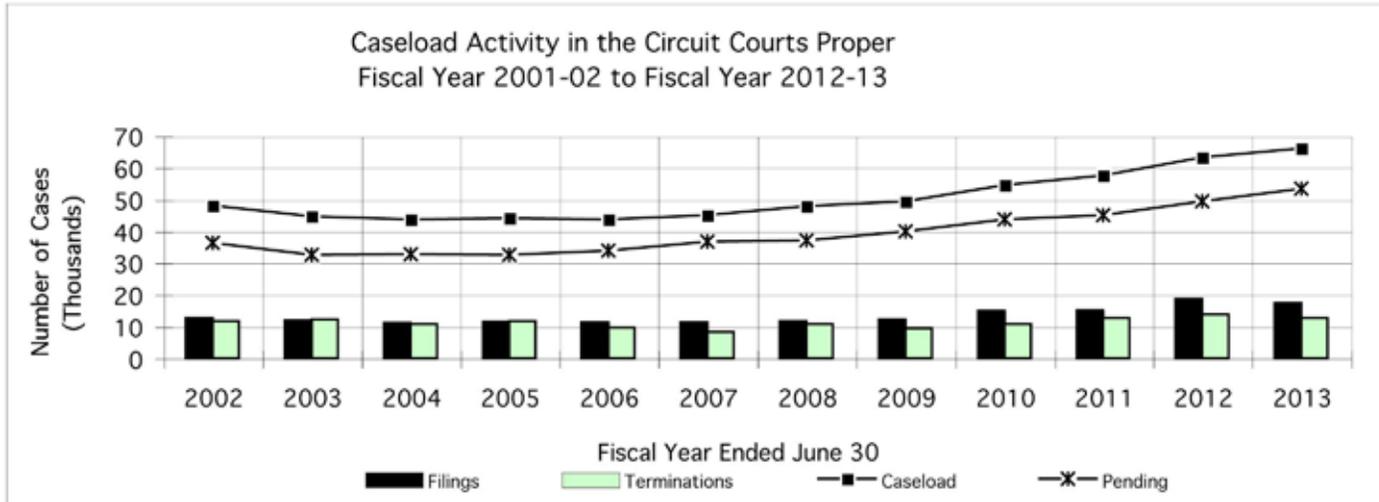

The mission of the Circuit Court is to expeditiously and fairly adjudicate or resolve all matters within its jurisdiction in accordance with the law.

Description

All jury trials are held in the Circuit Courts, which have general jurisdiction in civil and criminal cases. They also have exclusive jurisdiction in probate, guardianship and criminal felony cases, as well as civil cases where the contested amount exceeds $25,000. Circuit Courts share concurrent jurisdiction with District Courts in civil non-jury cases that specify amounts between $10,000 and $25,000. Additional cases dispensed by the Circuit Courts include mechanics' liens and misdemeanor violations transferred from the District Courts for jury trials.

Circuit Court judges are appointed to ten-year terms by the Governor from a list of not less than four and not more than six nominees provided by the Judicial Selection Commission. The nominees are subject to confirmation by the State Senate.
